

Sorry guys, I have been asked to remove this document.

To have an electronic copy available is priceless when your working on C code.
It's a shame they don't sell one.

Check you local P2P network for a copy, I suggest LimeWire or <http://www.isohunt.com>

Or there is always Amazon.

John L. Sokol

-----
Pearson Education, Inc.
LaShonda Morris
One Lake Street
Security Specialist
Upper Saddle River, NJ 07458
Tel: (201) 236-5803
Fax: (201) 236-3400
Lashonda_Morris@pearsoned.com

Web

December 21, 2005

C Programming Language Site
Attn: John Sokol
9839 Vernon Ave.
Montclair, CA 91763
Email: sokol@dnnull.com; sokol@unmailable.com

VIA ELECTRONIC MAIL

Dear Mr. Sokol:

This office represents Pearson Education, Inc. ("Pearson"), which owns among other imprints the Prentice Hall publishing imprint. It has come to Pearson's attention that your website, www.c-program.com <www.c-program.com> (the "Website"), and specifically the following link www.c-program.com/The\_C\_Programming\_Language\_Ritchie\_kernighan.pdf <www.c-program.com/The\_C\_Programming\_Language\_Ritchie\_kernighan.pdf> , contains the work listed below that your that your Website reproduces, displays and makes available for download in violation of Pearson's copyright.

The C Programming Language, Ansi C Version, 2/e by Brian W.
Kernighan and Dennis M. Ritchie
ISBN: 0-13-115817-1

Pearson knows that it has not authorized copies of Pearson's proprietary Work to be reproduced on, displayed on or made available for download from the Website. Therefore, the unauthorized reproduction and distribution of the Prentice Hall Work on the Website is clear and willful infringement of Pearson's copyright and exclusive rights as the publisher of the Works under United States copyright law and international copyright treaties.

Be advised that Pearson considers infringement of any kind to be a grave matter and Pearson vigorously protects its proprietary interests in its Work. Therefore, as an initial matter, Pearson hereby demands that you confirm in writing that you will immediately remove the Work from your website. Further, please note that a copy of this notice will be sent your hosting company in the event that you do not comply with the demands of this notice. We will request that your hosting company terminate any services that they may provide to you and your Website.

The demands made in this electronic mail shall not waive or prejudice any rights or remedies which Pearson may have in connection with this matter, including the right to commence legal action and to seek injunctive relief, if necessary, without further notice to you.

Pearson expects a response confirming that the Work will be removed from your Website no later than ten (10) business days from your receipt of this electronic mail.

Sincerely,
LaShonda Morris

My name, typed above, constitutes an electronic signature under Federal Law, and is intended to be binding.

---

LaShonda Morris
Web Security Specialist
Pearson Education
1 Lake Street, 3B59
Upper Saddle River, NJ 07458
(201) 236-5803
lashonda.morris@pearsoned.com <<mailto:lashonda.morris@pearsoned.com>>